CUP OF CHEER: D.C. United fans reach for the trophy after their team defeated the Kansas City Wizards 3-2 in the MLS Cup at the Home Depot Center in Carson, Calif., on Sunday. It was United's fourth cup victory.

United Wins Fourth Cup

CARSON, CALIF. | Peter Nowak had an empty feeling when he left the MLS Cup four years ago. He was beaming this time.

D.C. United's rookie coach and his team had just won the franchise's fourth MLS Cup, beating Kansas City 3-2 Sunday.

"I got my trophy back," Nowak said after Alecko Eskandarian scored twice to lead United to victory.

Nowak was the MVP of Chicago's 1998 victory over United in Major League Soccer's championship game, then was on the field again when the Fire lost 1-0 to Kansas City in 2000.

United spotted the Wizards an early goal Sunday, then scored three times in a seven-minute span of the first half.

Eskandarian scored in the 19th minute to tie it 1-1, then added another goal four minutes later. United built a two-goal lead on an own-goal when a pass by 38-year-old Earnie Stewart deflected off Wizards' defender Alex Zlotinca and into the net in the 26th minute.

Freddy Adu, United's 15-year-old phenom, became the youngest member of a pro championship team in the United States in modern sports history. It was United's fifth title game appearance in the nine years the league has been playing, but the first since a 2-0 victory over Los Angeles in 1999. (AP)

Fighting Subsides In Fallujah

Troops battle holdouts, find mutilated body of Westerner

NEAR FALLUJAH, IRAQ | The U.S. military's assault on Fallujah has gone quicker than expected, with the entire city occupied after six days of fighting, the Marine commander who planned the offensive said Sunday.

U.S. Marine Maj. Gen. Richard Natonski said he and other commanders learned from April's failed three-week Marine assault on Fallujah, which the Bush administration called off after a worldwide outcry over civilian deaths. This time, the military sent in six times as many troops and 20 types of aircraft. Troops also faked attacks before the assault to confuse enemy fighters.

"Maybe we learned from April," Natonski said. "We learned we can't do it piecemeal. When we go in, we go all the way through."

At least 38 American troops and six Iraqi soldiers have been killed in the fighting in Fallujah. The number of U.S. troops wounded is now 275, though more than 60 have returned to duty. U.S. officials estimated more than 1,200 insurgents were killed in the weeklong fighting.

On Sunday, Marines and Army units were still battling gritty bands of defenders scattered in buildings and bunkers across the Sunni Muslim stronghold. U.S. forces now occupy — but have yet to subdue — the entire city.

Marines found the mutilated body of a Western woman as they searched for militants still holding out. The woman could not be immediately identified, but a British aid worker and a Pole are the only Western women known to have been taken hostage.

As fighting in Fallujah ebbed, insurgent attacks appeared to escalate elsewhere in Sunni Muslim areas of Iraq. (AP)

EVIDENCE | Name Check It didn't take long for police to uncover the identities of suspects in a Kansas City robbery. Two men cornered a pastor Wednesday night; one man asked for money, threatening the church and its congregation.

The Rev. Tony R. Caldwell was short of cash, so he offered to write each man a check. The men agreed, making certain he knew the correct spellings of their names, which he passed along to police. (AP) EyeOpeners | Page 2

CRIME

Putting the 'Serve' in 'Protect and Serve'

A 30-year-old crook in Enghien-les-Bains, France, had some unlikely accomplices for a recent heist — the police. The man stopped into a police station Saturday night claiming to be the owner of a jewelry store a few blocks away. He told the officers he'd lost his keys and needed their help to get back in, Agence France Presse reported. The police obliged, calling in a locksmith to pry open the door. The man then reached for the shop's display counters and grabbed fountain pens and watches — among them a Rolex. When the suspicious locksmith asked for ID, the man fled. The booty was worth some $13,000 dollars.

Checking References Could Help

Leaders of the Rejoice Ministries church in Willmar, Minn., have learned it may be possible to have too much faith. Last winter they hired Dennis Bennett to be their pastor. Bennett, a con artist, stole $10,000 from the church, authorities said. The church then hired James Poole, who skipped town within a month without repaying $3,344 he "borrowed." Poole — whose real name is Jerry Andrews, officials said — is an ex-con. (AP)

DISCIPLINE

Gives New Meaning To the 'Bible Belt'

Even before losing his job, a Wasilla, Alaska, principal felt whipped. After two Matanuska Christian School boys were caught kissing girls in late October, Principal Steve Unfried prayed for a solution. Inspired by Jesus, he said to the boys, "I share in this discipline," he told the Anchorage Daily News. He had a teacher whip him with a belt until the students acknowledged their mistake. School officials fired Unfried for not notifying parents before going ahead with the discipline. The teacher has resigned. (EXPRESS)

ROAD RAGE

Mistaken Identity

A Curtis, Wash., woman was so angry at her ex-boyfriend for finding another woman that she tried to run his car off the road. The trouble was, she had the wrong car. Theresa M. Wilson, 43, mistook the red 1987 Chevrolet Sprint in front of her on Tuesday for her ex-boyfriend's maroon 1988 Chevrolet Spectrum. She forced the car off the road and rammed it three times, State Patrol troopers said. The driver of the Sprint, Tim Baars, 47, was on his way to work and at first thought Wilson just wanted to get around him. "That's not even close to what she was thinking," Baars, a volunteer firefighter, said. "Things like that just don't happen around here." "Oh my God, that's not my boyfriend," a Washington State Patrol trooper recalled her saying before she was arrested. (AP)

NEW YORK Cellular Companies Cut Fees Raised Due to Portability Rule

The nation's second- and third-largest cell phone carriers are lowering controversial surcharges on customer bills that have brought the companies more than $250 million this year. Verizon Wireless and Sprint Corp. say they're reducing the fees, starting this month, because costs of a federal order to allow "phone number portability" — when people switch carriers but keep the same cell numbers — have fallen sharply since it took effect a year ago. ## Specter's Post in Jeopardy

Senator's comments may cost him judiciary committee chief job

WASHINGTON | Sen. Arlen Specter's move up to chairman of the committee that handles the president's judicial nominees is on the line this week when lawmakers return to the Capitol to clean up the unfinished work of this Congress and prepare for the next one.

One focus when the Senate reconvenes on Tuesday will be the efforts of Specter, R-Pa., to convince his fellow Republicans that he deserves to be the next Judiciary Committee chairman. Opposition has arisen to the moderate Republican, who supports abortion rights, as a Specter told ABC's "This Week" he had never applied a litmus test to Supreme Court nominees and had voted for anti-abortion judges. "I have supported all of President Bush's nominees in the committee and on the floor, and those go right to the heart of factual matters of concern," he said.

Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist, R-Tenn., said Specter must still make his case to Republican senators.

Frist told "Fox News Sunday" that he would expect the committee's head "to have a strong predisposition" to supporting the president's nominees. JIM ABRAMS (AP)

Richard Codey, left, takes the oath of office as New Jersey's acting governor in West Orange, N.J., on Sunday.

New N.J. Governor Sworn In

WEST ORANGE, NEW JERSEY | State Senate President Richard Codey took the oath of office as New Jersey's acting governor, a role he will assume Tuesday after Gov. James E. McGreevey's resignation becomes official.

The transfer of power Sunday caps a transition period that began with McGreevey's stunning disclosure in August that he would resign because of a gay sex scandal.

Codey, 57, a Democrat, opted for a private swearing-in in deference to the circumstances of McGreevey's departure, aides said.

Because New Jersey is one of eight states without the position of lieutenant governor, Codey will wield the clout of both governor and Senate leader for a time, filling the governor's term that ends in January 2006. GEOFF MULVIHILL (AP)

Pill May Ease Addictions

Drug touted as aid for weight, smoking woes might treat drug abuse

NEW YORK | A pill that helps you lose weight and quit smoking? That was amazing enough to capture headlines last week. But scientists say the experimental drug might be even more versatile, providing a new tool to help people stop abusing drugs and alcohol, too.

It's called rimonabant, or Acomplia, and last week researchers said it could help people not only lose weight but keep it off for two years. That burnished the drug's reputation after two studies in March, which suggested it could fight both obesity and smoking, two of humanity's biggest killers.

But animal studies suggest rimonabant can also block the effects of marijuana and fight relapse in alcohol and cocaine abuse, addiction expert Dr. Charles O'Brien of the University of Pennsylvania said.

The French pharmaceutical firm Sanofi Aventis SA plans to seek federal approval for rimonabant next year. MALCOLM RITTER (AP)

Clinton Library Debut Nears

Organizers expect new $165M center to draw thousands of visitors

LITTLE ROCK, ARK. | As Bill Clinton's library is unveiled at a gala opening this week, one thing is certain: His messy legacy will be on full display.

One alcove will be dedicated to impeachment, and organizers have promised not to sidestep even Monica Lewinsky or Paula Jones. The 58-year-old political superstar is expected to draw hundreds of thousands of visitors a year to his library.

"Bill Clinton is a rock star," said Skip Rutherford, head of Clinton's nonprofit foundation that built the $165 million library. "He is Elvis."

The William J. Clinton Presidential Center, a metaphorical "bridge to the 21st century" cantilevered out over the bank of the Arkansas River, opens Thursday as

WASHINGTON | Vice President Dick Cheney, back home after a brief hospital visit, has nothing more than a bad cold and his heart is fine, his wife and an adviser said Sunday.

Cheney, 63, who has had four heart attacks, had three hours of tests Saturday after experiencing shortness of breath.

They showed no problems with his heart — "none whatsoever," said Mary Matalin, a former top aide.

Cheney's most recent heart attack was in November 2000, just before he took office. He had a pacemaker implanted in his chest in June 2001.

Matalin said Cheney was following the orders of his "very cautious" doctors who recommended that he have tests at the hospital. (AP)

At the end of last year, 3,374 prisoners were awaiting execution, 188 fewer than in 2002, according to the Bureau of Justice Statistics. A total of 65 people, all men, were executed last year. (AP)

Abbas Greeted By Fire

Militants barge into tent, kill 2 during visit by Arafat’s successor

GAZA CITY, GAZA STRIP | Mahmoud Abbas, the temporary successor to Yasser Arafat, escaped unharmed Sunday when a group of about 20 militants firing assault rifles burst into a mourning tent for the deceased Palestinian leader, killing two security guards and wounding six other people.

The shooting raised grave concerns about a violent power struggle in the post-Arafat era. Some of the gunmen shouted slogans calling Abbas, a moderate who has spoken out against violence, an agent of the United States.

It appears most of the shots were fired in the air; the casualty toll likely would have been far higher had the gunmen taken aim at the large crowd. Abbas’ bodyguards hustled him into a corner as frightened mourners scrambled to flee. He was then taken to Palestinian headquarters. The gunmen reportedly melted into the crowd and escaped arrest.

The violence came just hours after Palestinian officials set Jan. 9 as the date for elections to choose a new leader — the first vote in nine years. IBRAHIM BARZAK (AP)

‘Symbolic’ Win as U.S. Takes Bridge

Span was the site of Americans’ mutilation

FALLUJAH, IRAQ | U.S. Marines on Sunday reopened the Fallujah bridge where Iraqis strung up the charred bodies of two American contractors in March, with officers calling the span’s clearing for traffic a symbolic victory in the fight against Iraq’s insurgents.

The March 31 slaying of four Blackwater Security Consulting employees, two of whose bodies were burned and hung from the red trestle, touched off a Marine assault in April. That fight was halted but U.S. forces attacked again this week, retaking Fallujah and its now-notorious bridge from rebels.

“This is a big event for us,” said Maj. Todd Des Grosseilliers. “It’s symbolic, because the insurgents closed the bridge and we reopened it,” he said before Marines rolled away a coil of concertina wire and crossed the span over the Euphrates River on foot.

Two Iraqi bodies lay near the bridge, dead in the assault that began Monday and saw U.S. and Iraqi forces pushing southward through Fallujah. (AP)

Mexico’s PRI Set To Gain Ground

CIUDAD VICTORIA, MEXICO | Mexico’s former ruling party was poised to extend its comeback this year in state elections, as residents of four states went to the polls to choose new governors on Sunday.

The Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, lost the presidency in 2000 after 71 years of one-party rule. But it has shown resilience this year, winning four of the six gubernatorial elections before Sunday. And pre-election polls showed it had a wide lead in three of the four states choosing a governor Sunday. (AP)

Ivory Coast’s Gbagbo Skips Summit as Criticism Mounts

ABIDJAN, IVORY COAST | Ivory Coast’s president, blamed by France for violence against foreigners and on guard against feared attempts by Paris to overthrow him, holed up in his lagoon-side mansion Sunday and skipped an African summit on ending his country’s crisis.

At the summit in Nigeria, African leaders backed an arms embargo and other U.N. sanctions against Ivory Coast. French President Jacques Chirac, meanwhile, denounced President Laurent Gbagbo’s “questionable regime” — and said France would not tolerate much more.

France’s heavy criticism came after a five-day spate of anti-foreigner rampages. It began when Gbagbo’s military broke a ceasefire in the country’s civil war with airstrikes on the rebel-held north, which killed nine French peacekeepers and an American aid worker.

France wiped out Ivory Coast’s newly built-up air force in retaliation, which unleashed a violent loyalist uprising. SCHALK VAN ZUYDAM (AP)

Iran Agrees to EU's Terms

Letter to U.N. nuke agency vows to halt uranium enrichment

VIENNA, AUSTRIA | Iran notified the U.N. nuclear watchdog in writing Sunday that it would suspend uranium enrichment and related activities to dispel suspicions that it was trying to build nuclear arms.

With its move, Iran appeared to have dropped demands to modify a tentative deal worked out on Nov. 7 with European negotiators, agreeing instead to continue freezing enrichment — the process to make either nuclear fuel or the core for nuclear weapons — and also to suspend related activities, diplomats said.

"Basically it's a full suspension," said one of the diplomats, speaking on condition of anonymity. "It's what the Europeans were looking for."

Tehran's top nuclear negotiator, Hossein Mousavian, confirmed that his country was giving its "basic agreement" to a temporary suspension. "We accept suspension as a voluntary measure on the basis of agreement with the European Union," Mousavian said on Iranian state television, emphasizing that his country viewed the move as a concession for "confidence building" and not a "legal obligation."

"Europe will support Iran's joining the international group of states possessing the ability to manufacture nuclear fuel" once the suspension ends, Mousavian said, signaling yet again that Iran viewed the freeze as temporary.

Washington has argued that Iran's enrichment activities are in violation of its international treaty obligations and part of a nuclear arms program. The United States has called for the indefinite suspension if not an outright scrapping of Iran's domestic enrichment program. Iran says it wants to master the technology only to generate power. ## Group Wants to Rejoin N. Ireland Talks

BELFAST, NORTHERN IRELAND | Northern Ireland's largest and most violent outlawed group, the Ulster Defense Association, announced Sunday it will desist from further attacks and wants to rejoin peace-making efforts.

The statement from the anti-Catholic group — which has killed more than 400 people in a self-proclaimed "war" against the Irish Republican Army — represented a potentially significant step in the pro-vince's decade-old peace process.

The UDA issued its statement two days after Britain, which had banned the group from negotiations in 2001, said it accepted that the group was observing a credible truce again after years of violations.

UDA officials haven't said whether the group intends to start disarming, a goal of the 1998 peace accord. Previously, it insisted it would not surrender a single bullet until the IRA disarmed in full. (AP)

Atlantis: No Longer the Lost City?

Skeptical response to American's claim that ruins are near Cyprus

LIMASSOL, CYPRUS | An American researcher claimed Sunday to have discovered the remains of the legendary lost city of Atlantis on the bottom of the east Mediterranean Sea.

Robert Sarmast said sonar scanning of the seabed between Cyprus and Syria revealed man-made walls, one as long as 2 miles, and trenches at a depth of 1,640 yards. "Their location and lengths match exactly the description of the acropolis of Atlantis provided by Plato in his writings," Sarmast said, referring to the ancient Greek philosopher.

The chief government archaeologist of Cyprus, Pavlos Flourentzos, reacted with skepticism. "More proof is necessary," he said.

Sarmast, 38, is an architect by training from Los Angeles. He has devoted the past two years to trying to locate the lost city described by Plato, who wrote of Atlantis as an island in the western sea that was submerged after it was hit by an earthquake. It was a highly civilized nation for its time. ALEX EFTY (AP)

Ballpark Site Already a Hot Property

Gentrification worries rise with prices in D.C.

WASHINGTON | Capitol Hill's housing market was already booming, but the proposed baseball stadium just to the south is helping to drive up prices beyond the stomping grounds of lawmakers.

"It's pushing out, but baseball just helped it," said Long and Foster real estate agent Christopher W. Pierce. He said prices for rowhouses in the area around the Southeast ballpark site have risen from approximately $200,000 to $240,000 in the past six months.

Critics of the planned $440 million stadium near the Anacostia River fear it will push poor residents out of a part of the city where they can still afford to live, but officials believe it would happen anyway.

Baseball advocates have argued that the stadium will spark new restaurants and businesses for the waterfront, helping to bring new revenue to the city and improving the lives of nearby residents.

Economists generally agree that a ballpark alone can't be blamed for displacing the poor.

"Whether the stadium is a stimulant of gentrification or not, gentrification is happening now in Anacostia," said Virginia Tech urban studies professor Arthur C. Nelson. BRETT ZONGKER (AP)

SINCE YOU ASKED

Q Why can't we add money to our SmarTrip cards via the Internet?

A Software that would allow riders to do that is being developed and could be available next summer, said Murray Bond, Metro's director of SmarTrip operations.

Riders would be able to pre-authorize — over the Internet and by mail — regular credit or debit payments that would load fare onto a card when it is touched to a SmarTrip sensor on a date specified by the card user. That will include sensors on buses and fare gates, as well as fare-card machines, he said. A similar feature already exists for businesses providing transit benefits to employees, but that program runs on different software, said Bond.

The option will be part of a regional system being built to manage SmarTrip data as other area transit agencies begin accepting the rechargeable, hard plastic fare cards. DANNY FREEDMAN (EXPRESS)

Students Injured In Va. Bus Crash

10 hospitalized after vehicle hits archway along G.W. Parkway

ALEXANDRIA, VA. | Ten students from a Boston-area private boys school were injured Sunday when the tour bus carrying them to George Washington's Mount Vernon home failed to clear an arched bridge and had a large portion of its roof sheared off.

None of the injuries were considered life-threatening, U.S. Park Police Sgt. Scott Fear said.

The bus was carrying 25 students and two chaperones from the St. Sebastian's School in Needham, Mass., according to Headmaster

William L. Burke III. Fear said 29 people were on the bus.

According to police, the bus was in the right lane and crashed into the arched bridge in Alexandria. Signs posted along the George Washington Memorial Parkway warn buses to move into the left lane ahead of the bridge because of height restrictions, Fear said.

The injured were taken to three Washington-area hospitals, where nine were treated and released and the 10th was kept overnight for observation, Burke said.

"The number of mothers I've talked to today who said there must be a guardian angel watching over St. Sebastian's has been significant," Burke said. (AP)

A PALPABLE CHILL: Santa Claus could not conquer "The Incredibles." The cartoon hit retained the top slot at the box office for a second weekend, taking in $51 million to fend off "The Polar Express," which scored a weak $23.5 million.

EIGHT LEGS TO HOLD YOU: Author and illustrator David Kirk at home in his spider-friendly lair, surrounded by Miss Spider and Sunny Patch toys and products.

The Spider With Legs

The kindly arachnid David Kirk created isn't so itty-bitsy anymore

BUGGY | This spider man's world is a whimsical, woodsy wonderland, where a vegetarian spider teaches lessons of love and friendship.

Author David Kirk is the creator of the popular Miss Spider series of children's books. Now, Kirk's creation is reaching an even wider audience as a daily show on Nickelodeon Jr. and CBS, "Miss Spider's Sunny Patch Friends."

David Kirk grew up in Columbus, Ohio, and graduated from the Cleveland Institute of Art. He won a scholarship to study painting in England for a year, a trip that left a profound impression.

"That whole Victorian era was appealing to me, the styles that developed in that era and the subject matters — fairies, angels and women," said Kirk, whose parents were professional puppeteers.

When he ran out of money, he returned to New York City. He was 23. He began building toys — not for children, but one-of-a-kind pieces for Peter-Pan adults.

The toy venture didn't last — but it led the soft-spoken author to Miss Spider.

The idea for Miss Spider came from Kirk's oldest daughter, Violet, now 17.

"When she was little, she could pick up a little caterpillar and carry it around for hours," he said. "I would worry because kids aren't usually very careful. Hours later, she would still have her little bug, and it would still be happy, crawling around. She was the inspiration for Miss Spider. Someone who might cause a little trouble, but always very nice."

In her first book, "Miss Spider's Tea Party," Miss Spider has trouble making friends because the other bugs fear they will be eaten. In subsequent stories, Miss Spider gets married, starts a family, buys a car and learns the alphabet.

The stories are gentle and told in rhyming verse. The lessons are simple ones: Be kind. Don't cheat. Don't give up.

Miss Spider's success has meant some changes for Kirk, who used to sit for hours a day by himself, doing the oil paintings for his illustrations. Now, others help with the animation, story lines and writing.

"I've had to give up some control of Miss Spider ... but it's been more fun than sitting by myself painting," he said. WILLIAM KATES (AP)

Dead to the World

Makeup artists work ghoulish magic on the living dead of 'CSI'

TRICKS OF THE TRADE | In the makeup trailer for "CSI: Miami," vibrantly tinted lipstick and blush are applied to series star Khandi Alexander, who plays Dr. Alexx Woods. In the next chair, actress Megan Boyle sits quietly as death is painted onto her face.

Delicately drawn green veins, a cosmetically induced bloodless pallor and autopsy "scars" turned Boyle into an eerily believable corpse.

"Hey, everybody dies. I get to practice," said Boyle.

The proliferation of "CSI" series, along with other forensic dramas, has created a graveyard full of actors who play dead. "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation," "CSI: Miami" and newcomer "CSI: New York" do use dummy corpses, but often it's real people who occupy the autopsy table.

Episodes for the trio of CBS' hit crime dramas show the discovery of a victim and then flash back to the events surrounding their death.

That requires a living actor.

Stiffs with the right stuff are "extremely important. That's what people tune into, the reality of what we deliver here," said Scott Shiffman, a "CSI: Miami" producer.

It's the job of makeup department head Cheri Montesanto-Medcalf and her staff to fake death for "CSI: Miami."

For Boyle's character, asphyxiated in the Nov. 29 episode, an ivory-toned base sponged onto face, lips and upper chest is the first step. The prominent veins and hidden bruising around the mouth that will show up on the autopsy table under blacklight add to the illusion.

"They still want her to look beautiful," Montesanto-Medcalf said of the 23-year-old actress with flowing blond hair — destined to be matted with debris.

Not bad, considering how gruesome it gets for other "CSI" victims. Photos decorating the makeup trailer at Raleigh Studios show one victim, dragged by a bus. An actor transformed into a decomposed corpse is another pinup.

Laverne Munroe, helping transform Boyle, created a gunshot on a squeamish actor's face.

"He said, 'I've got to step out. I'm going to throw up,'" recalled Munroe. "We were a little surprised. It was just a bullet hole."

The Doctor Is In

Hugh Laurie tackles a tough role as rude but brilliant Dr. House

DEBUT | Hugh Laurie was on location in Namibia for the upcoming movie "Flight of the Phoenix" when it was suggested he audition for two roles in the offbeat medical series "House."

He presumed Dr. James Wilson was the "hero" of the drama premiering Tuesday on Fox, because the character was described as having "a handsome open face."

The self-deprecating Laurie chose "the other chap, and to my amazement, discovered he was the central role."

That "other chap" is Dr. Gregory House, an acerbic diagnostician with a ruthlessly honest approach to solving obscure medical maladies. He's also exceptionally ornery for a lead character in a prime-time drama.

And he's American.

Laurie is best known to U.S. audiences as the very English gadabout Bertie Wooster in "Jeeves and Wooster," which aired on PBS. But he's played Americans before, including the father in the "Stuart Little" movies and Vincente Minnelli in the TV biopic "Life with Judy Garland: Me & My Shadows."

Laurie's natural speaking voice reflects his schooling at upscale Eton, where he says his report cards often included the adjective "ghastly." He jokes that his American accent includes "a touch of Hungarian and Pakistani, depending on how tired I am," but he sounds at ease as a Yank.

Laurie, center, had to master a medical vocabulary and an American accent.

Laurie, 45, is the son of a doctor; there was a time when he thought of pursuing that career. "I forget now why I didn't. It's hard work. Maybe that put me off."

Laurie demurs about the personal and professional demands of his chosen career. "It's all odd pretending anything — whether you are pretending to be the father of a mouse or to have medical knowledge, which you don't really have."

ERRATIC BUT RIVETING: Fans stuck with O.D.B., born Russell Jones, even when he disappeared from the music scene for long, perplexing stretches.

Rap's O.D.B. Collapses, Dies

The hard-living star had complained of shortness of breath

APPRECIATION | The rap artist O.D.B., whose utterly unique rhymes, wild lifestyle and incessant legal troubles made him one of the most vivid characters in hip-hop, collapsed and died inside a recording studio Saturday. He was 35.

O.D.B. had complained of chest pains before collapsing at the Manhattan studio, and was dead by the time paramedics arrived, said Gabe Tesoriero, a spokesman for O.D.B.'s record label, Roc-a-Fella.

The cause of death was not immediately clear, but O.D.B. had recently finished a prison sentence for drug possession and escaping a rehab clinic. He would have turned 36 on Monday.

O.D.B. — also known as Ol' Dirty Bastard, Dirt McGirt, Big Baby Jesus or his legal name of Russell Jones — was a founding member of the seminal rap group the Wu-Tang Clan in the early 1990s. With his unorthodox delivery — alternately slurred, hyper and nonsensical — O.D.B. stood out even in the nine-man Clan, which featured such future stars as Method Man, RZA and Ghostface Killah.

The Wu-Tang blueprint was for each member to pursue solo projects, and O.D.B.'s were among the best. He released hit singles such as "Shimmy Shimmy Ya" and "Got Your Money," and appeared on remixes with artists like Mariah Carey.

But as his fame increased, so did his erratic behavior, and fans came to expect the unexpected from O.D.B.

Over the years, he was wounded in shootings and arrested on a veritable laundry list of charges, including menacing security officers, illegally possessing body armor, driving with a suspended license, shoplifting and threatening a former girlfriend.

Tesoriero said O.D.B. had been working on his comeback album and was almost finished.

Band Aid Redux for Sudan

CHARITY | Some of Britain's biggest pop stars gathered Sunday to record a new version of the hugely successful 1984 fund-raising hit "Do They Know It's Christmas?" being re-released this year to benefit victims of violence in Sudan.

Coldplay's Chris Martin, Jamelia, Ms. Dynamite, Will Young and members of the bands Busted, the Darkness and Sugababes were all part of the project, called Band Aid 20.

Paul McCartney, U2's Bono, Dido and Robbie Williams also participated in the new version, making their contributions ahead of time.

"It sounds gaudy, but I guess

there is a legacy," said Bob Geldof, who wrote "Do They Know It's Christmas?" in 1984 with Midge Ure, for a superstar group they called Band Aid.

The original record raised millions for those starving in Ethiopia.

PLEASE, MAKE IT STOP: There must be something hilarious in the water cooler over at CBS: The network has re-upped the unfunny "Listen Up," starring Jason Alexander and Malcolm Jamal-Warner, for two more seasons.

Criminal Injustice

Nick Broomfield argues that some monsters are created

FOLLOWUP | The worlds of criminal justice and entertainment overlap in the disturbing documentary "Aileen: Life and Death of a Serial Killer" (10 p.m., HBO) from director Nick Broomfield.

This is Broomfield's second film about Aileen Wuornos, the executed killer immortalized in the 2003 drama "Monster." Broomfield covered Wuornos' 1992 arrest and trials in "The Selling of a Serial Killer," a film that revealed her inept (and frequently stoned) lawyer as well as efforts by others to profit from Wuornos' trial.

The film's most harrowing scenes occur when Broomfield returns to the Detroit suburb where Wuornos was raised in grim conditions. It also includes news footage of Broomfield discussing the case with reporters and revealing a clear point of view. "We are executing a person who is mad," he says. "I find it very disturbing." KEVIN

MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

ON TV TONIGHT

TOMMY LEE TELLS ALL. AGAIN JIMMY KIMMEL LIVE! (12:05 a.m., ABC) Scheduled on the little-watched late-night show are author Tommy Lee and former Ashlee Simpson boyfriend Ryan Cabrera. Rock 'n' roll!

JUST REMEMBER: LOVE OF MONEY IS THE ROOT OF ALL EVIL LIFE OF LUXURY (8 p.m., ABC) People who have much more money than you and probably don't deserve it gloat about their luxurious lifestyles.

QUIT HOGGING THE HOT GIRLS TWO AND A HALF MEN (9:30 p.m., CBS) Finally, Alan gets some of the kind of action Charlie's used to; meanwhile Charlie has to take care of young Jake while Alan's out carousing. And he has the nerve to be resentful about it.

Maidenform's inexplicably popular campaign put underthings out there.

BOYS DON'T CRY EVERYBODY LOVES RAYMOND (9 p.m., CBS) Is it retro night? The ladies want Ray and Frank to go into therapy so they'll be more sensitive, like Robert. Why is this plotline still around and who wants to be like Robert?

FROM JUNK TO 'JUNQUE' ANTIQUES ROADSHOW (8 p.m., PBS) Attic treasures and basement beauties from Savannah, Ga., rake in bucks small and large.

UNDERNEATH IT ALL THEY MADE AMERICA (10 p.m., PBS) I dreamed I watched a worthy public-television special about the Maidenform bra in my Maidenform bra.

'DEE-GASS?' 'DAY-GAH?' LAS VEGAS (9 p.m., NBC) The title of this episode is "Degas Away With It," which doesn't make sense even when you pronounce as if you're Jimmy Caan. A stolen painting is involved, but still.

HELLO, GORGEOUS RETROSEXUAL (10 p.m., VH1) The music channel is hot—in that way—for the '80s. Which is weird; now that John Taylor of Duran Duran is back and still has all his hair, what's to miss? (EXPRESS)

Ravens Save Their Best for Last

Stover's overtime kick sinks Jets in 20-17 victory

RAVENS | Matt Stover and the Baltimore Ravens ruined Quincy Carter's first start for the New York Jets.

Stover kicked a 42-yard field goal with 7:39 remaining in overtime to lift the Ravens to a 20-17 victory over the Jets on Sunday.

Kyle Boller got the Ravens in position for the winning score by converting a third-and-5 from the Baltimore 49 with a 21-yard pass to Kevin Johnson. Boller then completed a 10-yard pass to Travis Taylor on third-and-14 from the Jets 34 to put the Ravens (6-3) in field goal range.

Boller was 19-of-33 for 213 yards with two touchdowns, both to rookie Clarence Moore. Jamal Lewis had 30 carries for 68 yards.

Carter, who started for the Jets (6-3) because Chad Pennington is out with a strained right rotator cuff, was 13-of-22 for 175 yards, but just 5-of-14 for 43 yards after halftime. Curtis Martin helped the Jets build a 14-0 lead in the first quarter, but also was ineffective after the break. He finished with 28 carries for 119 yards and two scores.

Pennington cheered from the sideline, waving a white towel to exhort his teammates. But it did little good.

Baltimore scored 17 unanswered points to take a 17-14 lead when Boller threw a 16-yard touchdown pass to Moore with 4:13 remaining.

Cardinals' Smith Runs Over the Giants

FOOTBALL | Just like the old days in Dallas, Emmitt Smith made life miserable for the New York Giants on Sunday.

Smith rushed for a pair of touchdowns and Arizona sacked Kurt Warner six times, including four by Bertrand Berry, in the Cardinals' 17-14 victory over New York.

Smith had 67 yards on 19 carries — and 30 of those yards came on Arizona's go-ahead touchdown drive.

Arizona (4-5) won its second straight, improved to 3-1 at home and is just a game back in the NFC West. After a 4-1 start, the Giants (5-4) have lost three of four. (AP)

Ohio State 'Happy' NCAA Will Investigate Charges

Ohio State athletic director Andy Geiger is happy the NCAA is coming to the university's campus Monday to investigate allegations made by former Buckeyes star Maurice Claret. "I hope there is the most thorough investigation in the history of inter-collegiate athletics, because this is so bogus I can't even characterize it," Geiger told reporters after Saturday's loss at Purdue. In an interview released this week, Claret accused coach Jim Tressel, his staff and school boosters of arranging for him to get passing grades, cars and thousands of dollars, including for bogus summer jobs. Serena Williams moved a step closer to salvaging her season with a 4-6, 7-6 (2), 6-4 semifinal victory over Amelie Mauresmo in the WTA Championships on Sunday. Williams, ranked eighth and without a Grand Slam title this season for the first time since 2001, advanced to Monday night's final against either Wimbledon champion Maria Sharapova or French Open winner Anastasia Myskina. Mauresmo's loss guaranteed Lindsay Davenport will retain the top spot when the year-end WTA rankings are released Tuesday. (AP)

Free agent shortstop Omar Vizquel signed a $12.25 million, three-year contract with the San Francisco Giants, a person close to the negotiations told The Associated Press on Sunday on condition of anonymity. ### Johnson Closes In On Busch's Lead

AUTO RACING | Jimmie Johnson, who won in Darlington in March, made it a sweep at the South Carolina track by taking advantage of a pit mistake by Jeff Gordon's team and won the final Southern 500 on Sunday, making the tightest championship chase in NASCAR history even closer with one race remaining.

Kurt Busch, who fought an ill-handling car after his Ford was damaged early in the race, somehow overcame adversity again to post a sixth-place finish and retain the points lead going into next Sunday's finale at Homestead.

Busch leads Johnson by 18 and Gordon by 21. Dale Earnhardt Jr. finished 11th and now trails by 72 points. (AP)

Stackhouse Makes the Wizards Pay

WIZARDS | Jerry Stackhouse found himself in a starring role against his former team.

Stackhouse scored 28 points against his former team, including three 3-pointers during a pivotal 23-6 run in the fourth quarter, to help Dallas win for the seventh time in eight games, a 122-113 victory over the Wizards.

It was the first game between the two teams since the draft-day trade that sent Stackhouse, Christian Laettner and the draft rights to Devin Harris to Dallas for Antawn Jamison.

Stackhouse was booed every time he touched the ball.

Jamison led a balanced Wizards attack with 23 points, nine rebounds and six assists.

Larry Hughes also had 23 and Gilbert Arenas and Brendan Haywood added 20 apiece to help Washington become the first team to score 100 points against Dallas this season. The last time four Wizards scored 20 or more points in a game was Feb. 6, 2004, in a 112-100 victory over the L.A. Clippers. (AP)

Answer Woman | Concierge

KIMBERLE REID, 36

JOB: Concierge at the Hotel Monaco

SALARY: Between $23,000 and $30,300, plus tips, according to Monster.com

WHAT SHE DOES: Reid's duties range from replacing forgotten tweezers and hairspray to making guests' big ideas happen, such as renting a boat in Annapolis for a couple of hours. Booking a table for 7:30 on a Saturday night is the most frequent — and often the toughest — request of all. If it can't be gotten, the key is to present options: "We never say 'no' in the hotel industry." Her second-most common request is to help orchestrate birthdays and anniversaries. She's even planned three marriage proposals. Some guests require more hand-holding than others in the event-planning department, however. Some men, she said, need help getting "a little bit more creative."

WOULD YOU WANT HER JOB: She dedicates a lot of her own time to visiting museums and feeling out restaurants in order to make sound recommendations to guests. On the upside, restaurants are usually happy to entertain a concierge, and might offer free meals. All that leg-work pays off in tips, sometimes up to $200 on a good week. "A lot of it comes from how fast we can procure something and what we know. The more you know, the more lucrative it can be."

HOW YOU CAN GET HER JOB: Previous experience in a restaurant or hotel demonstrates that you can manage a deluge of requests from customers. (Reid previously worked in accounting and as a front-desk manager.)

FOR MORE INFORMATION: The Washington Area Concierge Association (wacaonline.com) holds monthly meetings and maintains resources for concierges. DANNY FREEDMAN (EXPRESS)

New Grads Make Their Own Jobs

ENTREPRENEURS | Sarah Levy loved being a restaurant pastry chef — but not the long hours or low pay. So this spring, the 23-year-old Chicagoan launched her own business, Sarah's Pastries & Candies Inc.

She's not alone in her decision to strike out on her own. A number of young people are doing the same, driven by everything from a wish for more flexibility to a chance to test their own ideas.

The Young Entrepreneurs' Organization now counts 95 U.S. members younger than 30 in its ranks. And a first-time survey done this year by the National Association for the Self-Employed found that about 15 percent of its members are in their 20s or early 30s.

NASE's Gene Fairbrother said the percentage is significant because even as recently as three years ago young people rarely called for any sort of small-business advice.

"But not anymore," says Fairbrother, who believes cutbacks in some job sectors have played a role. MARTHA IRVINE (AP)

Cooking

Prison inmates share recipes you can make in your cell or kitchen

Proving that the steel bars of the Washington State Penitentiary are no barrier to fine dining, inmates at the Walla Walla prison have just produced "The Convict Cookbook," which includes recipes that can be made inside a cell without a stove.

"We wanted to beat Martha Stewart to the punch" is the explanation one inmate gave for the book, said prison spokeswoman Lori Scammahorn.

Po' Mans Burritos, Cell Block Fudge or Jail Mix, anyone? How about Dope Fiend Sandwich or Prizzon Po Carcass Casserole? Those are just a few of the tasty dishes featured in the 163-page book. There's a helpful glossary of prison slang in the back, too.

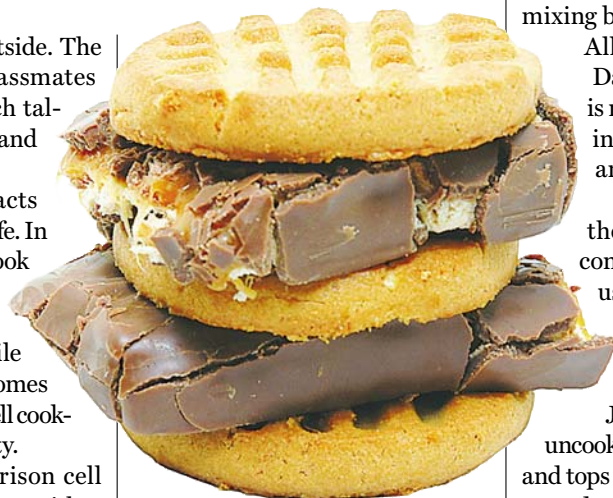

The cookbook grew out of a community college class on how to make the transition to the outside. The soon-to-be-released classmates discovered they had such talents as cooking, writing and cartooning.

The book includes facts and insights into prison life. In the essay "Why Do We Cook in Our Cells? or Bad Guys, Good Taste?" Rick Webb explains that while prison food is OK, it becomes monotonous over time. Cell cooking provides some variety.

Cooking food in a prison cell isn't easy. Prisoners have neither stoves or microwaves. What they are allowed is an immersion heater known as a stinger, which can heat a cup of water to boiling.

Some recipes can be cooked on radiator pipes. Others require the prison kitchen. Many of the recipes involve plastic bags standing in as mixing bowls.

All involve some ingenuity.

Dave Rivers' Perfect Omelet is made by combining all the ingredients in a plastic bag and boiling.

John Bucko, who drew the cartoons for the book, contributed a baklava recipe using flour tortillas layered with peanut butter, honey, a banana and peanuts.

Donald Dunn's Jailhouse Pizza uses uncooked Top Ramen as the crust and tops it with pizza sauce, cheese spread, some pepperoni or summer sausage and corn chips.

Dunn also provided the recipe for the Dope Fiend Sandwich, a popular treat. It consists of two Grandma's brand peanut butter cookies with a smashed Snickers bar in between. "These cookies are so named because heroin addicts often come to prison craving sweets," Dunn wrote.

Proceeds from sales of the $17 cookbook, available in bookstores around Washington state, will go to the Children's Museum of Walla Walla. Some of the money will also be used for museum passes for the children of inmates when they're in town for a visit.

"We all agree that it would be 'a good thing' to provide other worthwhile activities for children besides seeing Dad," Webb wrote.

I WANT TO BE A DAD

But I need your help to make my dream come true.

Egg Donor Needed

I have found a surrogate to carry my baby, but I still need an egg donor to help me.

Could you be that person?

My ideal egg donor is smart, fair-haired, tall, 21-31, with an excellent personal and family health history.

Television

Lisa de Moraes

Washington Post TV columnist LISA DE MORAES was online Friday and talked about television, movies and Dan Rather. | washingtonpost.com/liveonline

Can you please tell me what ever happened to scripted TV? You know, sitcoms and dramas?

Making a big comeback. "Desperate Housewives" is a bona fide hit, followed closely by "Lost." Meanwhile, a whole slew of reality series that the networks debuted in the sweeps because they were so confident they'd be Must-See-TV, have flopped. This is a great TV season.

Am I stupid for being oddly touched by (and a little weepy over) the Jimmy Smits back-from-the-dead cameo on NYPD Blue?

Maybe a little, but in these troubled times, it's nice to be touched by the sight of a TV character returning from the dead. Like when Stacie J. came back to "The Apprentice." I got a little choked up.

I really like "American Dreams," especially as a warm-up for "Desperate Housewives," on Sunday night. Does this show have staying power?

You're joking, right? "American Dreams" is the anti-"Desperate Housewives." Unless, of course, what you appreciate is the juxtaposition, in which case you're a deep thinker and I applaud your serious approach to the study of television.

ER. I had to turn the episode off less than halfway through because it was so BORING.

Welcome to the First Day of the Rest of Your Life!

What is the deal with the network tags/promos for another show that used to take up a very small corner of the TV screen? Is it just me or they are growing larger and larger? They seem to cover at least one-third of the screen now!

They are growing larger and larger and are now enormous. Especially on NBC. The smaller their ratings, it seems, the larger their promos.

Coverage Unfair to Phelps

WHILE I FIND DRUNK driving to be a serious offense requiring a stiff deterrent and punishment penalty, especially for young, provisionally licensed drivers, the way your publication mocked Olympic swimmer Michael Phelps last week was tastelessly overdone. The silly drivel about whether or not Mr. Phelps will wear a shirt when he performs his community service does not further intelligent debate about how to deal with alcohol use among teens or the issue of DUI. A news story about Mr. Phelps' arrest is warranted and should serve as notice to him and others that the public will not tolerate such behavior; however, the mocking poetry is a cruel and inappropriate use of your powerful public forum. You are acting like a bully.

HONORS

The Award for Gracefully Receiving Random Awards Goes To ...

STEVE MARTIN accepted the American Cinematheque career achievement honor in Beverly Hills Friday. He mocked his friends: "There are so many familiar faces tonight ... people I haven't seen in years and I just thought, 'Why can't we wear name tags.'" And he mocked the awards: "This evening is especially meaningful to me because when I was a kid my friends and I used to meet after school and get all dressed up and play 'American Cinematheque awards show.'" Shaken and upset, the snake left showbiz.

NEW HOBBIES

Snake Charmer

Few actresses would look so at home, so natural wrangling a large, scary serpent as ANGELINA "Love Me, Love My Weirdness" JOLIE. She snake-wrestled on the German celebrity game show "Wetten Dass ...?" ("Bet It ...?") on Saturday in Leipzig. (EXPRESS)

FOLK WISDOM

The Longer the Train, The Longer the Marriage

STAR JONES, co-host of ABC's "The View," married banker Al Reynolds in a star-studded Park Avenue bash. Notables ranging from Spike Lee to Sen. Hillary Clinton packed into St. Bartholomew's Church Saturday to watch Jones, 42, who wore a designer strapless wedding dress with a 27-foot train, exchange vows with Reynolds. "The train was so long it took about seven people to carry it," said friend Valerie Simpson, songwriter and half of the R&B duo Ashford and Simpson. (AP)

It's every "The View" co-host's dream: A fairy-tale wedding with a giant train.

"I am never, ever, ever ever ever going to Ocean City again," thought Michael.

TEEN FANS

OMG, He's Even Cuter Now That He's All Bad and Stuff!!

At his first publicized appearance since his drunken-driving charges were revealed, MICHAEL PHELPS said Saturday that he wanted to look people in the eye and tell them he made a mistake. "I just really want to reach out to every individual who even possibly thinks about making this mistake and make sure that they make the right decision," he said. Organizers estimated he signed at least 250 autographs at the Baltimore Convention Center. There was a strong contingent of teenage girls. "He's hot," said Lauren Johnson, 15. She said her legs were shaking when she talked to Phelps. (AP)

LITIGATION

An Advance Sets Rod Back

ROD STEWART must repay the $780,000 he accepted as a deposit for a Latin American concert tour that was canceled, a jury ruled in Los Angeles on Friday. The contract called for Stewart to be paid $2.1 million in advance for nine concerts. About $780,000 was paid before Stewart's associates canceled the tour; the money was not returned. (AP)

IRONY

We Would Give Anything to See Photos of This Incident

Two photographers sued CAMERON DIAZ and Justin Timberlake for assault and battery, claiming the couple taunted and attacked them outside a Hollywood hotel on Nov. 6. The lawsuit, filed Friday, said Saul Lazo and Jose Gonzalez did nothing to harass the couple and stood more than 10 feet away until Diaz ran at Lazo, hit him in the neck and tripped him, snatching his camera. Timberlake allegedly screamed at him: "What ... are you going to do, man? I know you are not going to do anything." Diaz kept Lazo's camera and turned it in to police. According to the suit, she also tried to grab the other camera after pushing Gonzalez, who ran away along with Lazo as Timberlake called after them, "Come and fight, you chickens." A representative for the couple said in a statement that they "acted only in self-defense." (AP)

THE TRUTH

'We Will Resent Each Other But Pretend to be Friends'

LINDSAY LOHAN and WILMER VALDERRAMA have ended their relationship. "They have broken up, but are still friends," Valderrama's publicist said Friday. Lohan and Valderrama acknowledged being a couple in July, after Lohan turned 18. Lohan's publicist, Leslie Sloane Zelnik, didn't immediately return a call seeking a comment from the AP. Us Weekly quoted Zelnik as saying, "I can confirm that they have

"Let's split amicably, my dear Wilmer." "Yes, I support your career, Lindsay."

amicably split, but the two remain close friends and supportive of each other's busy careers." (AP)

Horoscope

By Stella Wilder

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You can best assert yourself by letting go of the past, disposing of prejudices and moving ahead with a renewed perspective.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) You may be called upon to be unbiased and impartial when it comes to a decision affecting many others around you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You needn't be harsh and critical, even when you tell it like it is. There are times in which a little tact goes a long, long way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You should be able to provide for a friend or loved one precisely what he or she is wanting.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You'll be recognized for your ability to change course on the spot, and to improvise your way out of tricky, potentially hazardous situations.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll find yourself getting along much better with rivals and competitors. This is a phase during which you have much in common.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your interests are turning to those things that can bring you far greater rewards than you have been used to. Shift gears; go for it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Money matters are not to be overlooked, even though any financial juggling you've planned may not be able to be concluded.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Some may mistake your independence for arrogance — but others will recognize you as the leader you are. Share the wealth.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Use your imagination and you'll satisfy someone who is making unusual demands. In the end, what pleases you will please him or her, too.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) While it is accepted that there is strength in numbers, you may find that you stand the best possible chance doing things on your own.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You may have a tendency to be long-winded and otherwise overly indulgent when others give you the floor. Keep it simple.
